TELEPRIMARY CARE CERTIFICATE PROGRAM

Welcome to the American Board of Telehealth's Tele-Primary Care Certificate Program. Through world-class education, the American Board of Telehealth (ABT) equips healthcare professionals with the knowledge needed to integrate safe, high-quality, cost-effective, and accessible telehealth into the delivery of care.

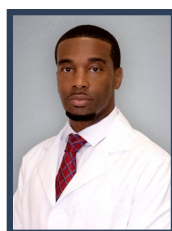

Virtual health is an expanding modality of care. It has demonstrated benefits including increasing access to care, decreasing geographic health disparities, increasing consumer convenience and compliance and decreasing professional isolation, just to name a few. This program has been designed to help primary care providers develop telehealth strategies for a post-pandemic future. It's a self-paced, online program that can fit into your busy schedule while still allowing you to explore innovative telehealth models and best practices that enable primary care teams to overcome key challenges. We hope you enjoy the practical approach to the course material and are able to apply it to your practice immediately.

Sincerely,
